269 ST. JEROME AT DEVOTION; one of the grandest works of P. Veronese, and described as such by several esteemed writers on Art, together with the COMMUNION of St. Jerome, (now the property of the BRITISH INSTITUTION,) to which it was a companion in the CHURCH of the MONASTERY of ST. BENEDICT, at MANTUA. They both possess a large share of historical dignity in the air and expression of the figures; a peculiar richness and vigour in the tints and tones of colour, and an equal degree of vigour in the handling and touches. The elevated expression of St. Jerome is doubly recommended by its being wholly devoid of every thing factitious, for the ease, the simplicity, and truth of nature are conspicuous throughout; as also, by the drawing and colouring of the figure, which are evidently after the life. This reference to living objects, for the drawing, colouring, and expression was indeed the almost constant and universal practise of the old masters. It effectually prevented their beauty of form and colour from degenerating into affectation and manner, and their sublimity into bombast. The more this most masterly picture is contemplated, the deeper will its beauties enter into the heart, because they are congenial with truth, and address our best feelings, and most cultivated taste. The Virgin, Infant Christ, and Angels, the objects of the Saint's Devotions, glow with chaste and lively colour, and are most delicately expressed—In No. 22.

LOT 410

Fifty-four unique and inestimable ANTIQUE CAMEOS of EXTRAORDINARY SIZE, and SUPERIOR SCULPTURE.

The irresistible interest excited in every cultivated mind by the inspection of this very valuable Cabinet, is in a considerable degree derived from an infinite number of circumstances to which it relates. The most prominent of these it may be acceptable to mention. In the first place, it will be observed, that this is a truly unique collection. Those Medallions, forming fifty-four Cameos, all in the finest state of preservation; are cut in ORIENTAL ALABASTER, and are unique, from being naturally formed in two strata of different colours like Onyx.

The Collection presents four totally different styles, although all were evidently executed at the same epoch, and unite to the exquisite workmanship of the time of BENVENUTO CELLINI, the majestic and sublime style of the original Sculptors. It was, doubtless, from the information afforded by this Collection, when at Rome, that SANTI BARTOLI was enabled to acquire that accuracy which distinguishes his valuable engravings.

These Medallions are inestimable, from their undoubted illustrations of those parts of the original basso-relievos, which, by the accidents of time have been irrecoverably lost.

THE FIRST CASE

Contains the Sculptures from the Arch of Septimios Severus, representing the principal exploits of that Emperor.

No. 1. The first War waged by Septimius against the Parthians.

The upper part of this Medallion represents on one side the Emperor addressing his army, on the other, the raising of the Siege of Nisibes, a city of Mesopotamia. Vologesus, King of the Parthians, is seen flying from the city on horseback.

The middle part of the Medallion contains a General Action between the Romans and the Parthians, in which the former are victorious.

In the lower part, the Roman Army storms and enters the Parthian city of Tharra, or Carra.

This Sculpture is on the right side of the Arch towards the Forum.

No. 2. Is placed at the left of the Arch towards the Forom.

The upper part of the Medallion represents, on the left, the King of Armenia, who meets Severus on his march to attack his Kingdom, and, by gifts, mitigates his anger, and obtains his friendship. On the other side, Severus is seen setting out the ground of his camp, and erecting a Tribunal. The next group to the left, consists of the Tribunes addressing the Soldiery. On the right is Abgarus, King of the Osrhoeni, throwing himself on the protection of Severus, to whom he brings his Archers and Soldiery.

The lower division contains the Siege of a strongly fortified city of the Atreni, against which the Army of Septimius is advancing a battering ram.

No. 3. On the right of the Arch on the side of the Capitol.

On the left of the upper part, the Emperor is seen addressing the Soldiery from a raised situation, and commanding them to make incursions into Arabia. He is surrounded by Tribunes, with whom he has been conferring. This occurred after Severus had taken Babylon, the capture of which is represented on the right.

The lower part contains the second Siege of the Atreni, against whom, the Emperor now brings a larger and more formidable battering ram. The Atreni raise their hands in a suppliant manner.

On the right is an attack made by the Roman Army on a ruined Aqueduct.

No. 4. On the left of the Arch on the side of the Capitol.

At the top of the Medallion on the left, the Babylonians are escaping over the Euphrates; a little more to the right, they are submitting to Severus. In the next division below, the principal Magistrates of the Arabians address Severus on their knees, as in submission. The next part is the taking of Seleucia, a city of Parthia, from which fugitives are seen departing on horseback in all directions; on the right, Artabanus, the King of the Parthians, with other horsemen. On the left, horsemen passing the Tigris. Below are seen the Roman Soldiers engaged in the attack.

On the bank of the Tigris, and also of Euphrates, are seen small receptacles, or aqueducts, such as were formed by the Romans to carry off the overflowings of the rivers, near which they encamped.

Under each of the above Sculptures is represented a procession, marked No. 5. These processions, which are alike in subject, represent Priests in their Robes conducting victims; Soldiers with spoils of the enemy; and Prisoners of War, who, in suppliant attitudes, address the Genius of Rome.

No. 6. Represents Kings and Generals, prisoners of war, adorning the triumph of Septimius Severus.

No. 7. Represents the Four Seasons, with various figures of Fame, bearing appropriate emblems.

THE SECOND CASE

Contains copies of the Sculptures on the Arch, erected to Constantine, on which are represented the Exploits of Trajan; in whose honour they were originally executed. These were taken from the Arch of Trajan by the Romans of the middle ages, and placed on the Arch they now adorn.

1. Trajan, on his return from Coesephonta, having addressed the people, elects Partanaspartes King of the Parthians.

2. Trajan sacrifices to Silvanus

3. One of the Fugitives who had come from Dacia to Messia, to assassinate Trajan, being arrested, is brought into his presence, where he reveals to the Emperor the plots of Decebalus.

4. Trajan, sacrificing to Diana, affixes to the trunk of a tree the head of a Wild Boar.

5. Trajan addressing the Cohorts.

6. Trajan sacrifices to Apollo.

7. Trajan, after having sacrificed the Bull, offers a Sow and a Ram; holding the sacrificial cup in his own hand. This kind of sacrifice was usually made at the conclusion of a Lustrum, and after having obtained many spoils from the enemy.

8. A Lion which has been killed, is placed at Trajan's feet.

9. Trajan on his return, after a signal victory over Decebalus, enters Rome in triumph, accompanied by two figures, representing Rome and Victory.

10. Trajan sacrifices to "Mars the Victorious."

11. The Romans, encouraged by the presence of Trajan, obtain the victory in a bloody battle with the Dacians.

12. The Romans under Trajan attack the Dacians, whom they conquer with immense slaughter.

13. Trajan returning, after having obtained victories over the Dacians, enters Rome in triumph, accompanied by figures, representing the Genius of Rome, and Victory; the latter placing a Chaplet on his brows.

14. The last victory of Trajan over the Dacians.

15. Huntsmen and Slaves occupied in the care of Horses and Dogs.

16. The Moon, borne in a Victorious Car, preceded by Hesperus (the Evening Star), who holds the reins, represents the Western Victories of the Roman Arms. The aged figure under the Chariot, is the Danube.

17. Partamasirius Arcacides, King of the Armenians, having taken his diadem from his head and placed it at the feet of Trajan, who is standing on a tribunal; the Satrap is waiting, in a suppliant attitude, the restitution of his crown.

18. Trajan having ascended the summits of the Mountains, attacks and destroys the Boars.

19. The beneficent Trajan founds an hospital, for the maintenance and education of children of both sexes in Italy.

20. Trajan having destroyed the fences, hunts the Wild Boars, which he kills with his spear.

21. Trajan formed a high-road from Beneventum to Brindisi, by which he obtained the honour of a Triumphal Arch. The female figure under his Car, represents the Genius of the Road, now open for the reception of carriages.

22. The Sun, drawn in a Chariot, presents a Palm to Lucifer (the Morning Star), who precedes him, symbolically representing the Roman Empire victorious in the East. The old male figure under the Car, represents Euphrates.

THE THIRD CASE

Contains the Sculptures from the Arch of Titus.

1. The ministering Priests bearing sacred vessels, and axes, conduct the victims to the Capitol for the Sacrifice.
